

As the owner of an ISP in Maine I find it unbelievable that Wireless Internet Services would be considered for paying to the USF. This fund's sole purpose is to give money to the telcos. The major complaint by the FCC and others in the Federal Govt is that ISP's do not spend money for Telecommunication build outs. This is extremely false. Our Wireless Tower systems are off grid to existing wireline systems in almost all cases. We provide highspeed access to the real Rural market. The towns we choose for delivery do not have DSL or cable. Why should my company pay for my competition to build out. USF has had it's day. It does not belong as a charge to systems that do not tax wireline services. No USF to the wireless bill!
